BRATTLEBORO LOCAL NEWS

THE WATER SUPPLY QUESTION.

John Galvin Thinks Action of Reservoir Company Was Cheeky-Wants to Discuss Matter in Detail.

cuss Matter in Detail.

The announcement in last week's Phonnix that the water question for Brattleboro was practically settled and the elaborate showing made of the scheme of the Chestnut Hill Reservoir company came like a bolt of lightning out of a clear sky to the people of this usually quiet village, in view of the fact that the village is investigating this important matter and is patiently awaiting the committee's report. The action of the Chestnut Hill Reservoir company in seemingly taking the village by the throat and dictating what shall be done, to whom tribute shall be paid and what the terms shall be (and it means all this) is a piece of the purest and most unadulterated cheek ever known and most unadulterated cheek ever known in the history of the village. Common courtesy at least should have impelled the water company to await the report of the village committee. When the West Brattleboro supply froze up last winter and the pump at the pumping station gave out the village set one of its fire engines at work pumping into the mains and by a liberal use of the telephone and express company installed a new pump and prevented a water famine that would have been a serious menace to private individuals as well as the village in the protection of property against fire. In view of past favors and that the company possesses a valuable franchise for which it never paid a penny, this action on their part is the more inexcusable. Now let part is the more inexcusable. Now let us have an engineer's report in full with the committee's recommendations; then we can see where the nigger in the fence is and discuss the matter in detail.

Figures That Surprise You. The egg and poultry earnings of the United States for one recent year amount-ed to $280,000,006. Such amount is suffi-ciently amazing as it stands, but you don't get its full significance until you study the relative financial values of other "in-dustrials." We find, for instance, that the total value of the gold, silver, wool and sheep produced in America during the year in question was $272,434,315. The sugar production of the country the same year was but $20,000,000. The part of the wheat crop used at home the wheat crop used at home, which many consider the most valuable of all our agricultural products, was worth $229,000,000. The great American hog, as coned at home and abroad, brought $186,- Potatoes grown in the United States were valued at nearly as large a sum as were the oats. The product of tobacco plantations was estimated to be worth $35,579,225. Cotton, the dethroned king of staples, could show only $259,161,840 as against the magnificent earnings of its feathered rival. The crops of flax, timo-thy, clover, millet, the cane seeds, broom corn, castor beans, hay, straw and so forth, couldn't, all told, come within a measurable distance of many millions of the poultry earnings. The hens' eggs pro-duced in this country annuals. duced in this country annually would fill 43,127,000 crates, each of the latter hold-ing 360 eggs; also, a train of refrigerator cars to carry these eggs would be nearly 900 miles long. Miss Christine Bau, at Woodsville, N. H., Said She Fired to "Have Some Fun"-Now in Asylum.

Christine Bau, 21, daughter of C. Bau, a photographer in Barre, shot two young men and attempted to shoot several others on the streets of Woodsville, N. H., Tuesday evening. Clarence Gomyer, a high school student, was walking down School street when the young woman suddenly drew a revolver and fired at him, the bullet passing through the fleshy wast of bullet passing through the fleshy wast of bullet passing through the fleshy part of his leg above the knee. She then walked to Court street, where she met J. B. Burt. locomotive fireman, near the Y. M. C. A. building. She fired at him twice, one shot lodging in his hand and the other in shot lodging in his hand and the other in his wrist. Officer Scallon started to arrest her and she snapped the revolver at him, but the cartridges had been exploded. Miss Bau arrived in Woodsville in the afternoon and took supper at the Putnam house. She went out on the street about 7 o'clock. There was nothing particular in her appearance or action to attract at-tention until she began to fire. The young men who were wounded are not in a men who were wounded are not in a serious condition. After being taken into custody at first she refused to give her name and residence. She said she had name and residence. She said she had never seen the people whom she shot and she was "just having some fun." She is probably instance. Miss Bau formerly lived in Brattleboro, her father having a photographic studio here and in Greenfield. The girl created a sensation in the latter town by attempting to commit suicide three or four years ago. Miss Bau was arraigned in the munic-

Wonderful Sport in Newfoundland. Brook trout and brown trout are not appreciated in Newfoundland, being far more common than the perch and sun-fish of the states. Catching them will soon surfeit the angler who casts his files from the shore of almost any lake. Such catches are counted by the dozens one lot of seventy-two dozen being brought aboard the train at Harbor Grace. One dozen ten inch trout usually self for 10 cents. There are 687 named lakes on the island and 30,000 known ones without names. The island has about 4000 miles of seacoast, including that of bays like Bonavista, Notre Dame, Fortune, St. Mary's, Bonne, St. George, Placentia and Hay of Islands. From one to six streams of clear green water empty into each of these bays. Every stream that reaches salt water is a salmon stream. Back from all that coast are other and easily reached streams that have not even a tradition of a fishnet, rod or hook, and lakes never mapped where one may camp and add to the fare wild geese and ducks, willow grouse, whose plumage turns white in winter, ptarmigan, plover and curlew. These camping places bring a unique sense of remoteness and solitude. Only one who actually has seen the wall of darkness around a campfire in ewfoundland jungles sround a campfire in Newfoundland jung-les and over the tundras can understand the tinge of fear that sometimes becomes almost appalling in the vast solitudes

We can think we can cure a bad case of backache quicker with one of Carter's smart weed and beliadonna backache plasters, than by any other application, and after the backache is cured, you can still wear the plaster without discomfort for two or three weeks, or longer. THE CHRISTMAS TREE FIEND. [M. J. Hapgood in the Londonderry Bifter.]

About this time of the year there come slyly into our back town communities, agents from the cities inquiring where roung spruce trees can be found. Thoughtless persons direct them to farmers whose bach pastures are "growing up" to dame Nature's most bountiful crop. Oftentimes these farmers are short of money, and short-sighted, and in all probability unaware of the present, well as the prospective, value of the well as the prospective, value of these lands which are again taking on their original coat, and so for the paltry sum of one cent apiece they permit these vultures to go upon their premises, select the best developed, as well as the most beautiful specimens, cut them off several feet above the ground, leaving the stub below to take up space, absorb the nourishment of the soil and destroy the looks of the whole field.

To prevent this abominable waste our legislature worked hard to frame a bill last fall, led by our present attorney general, but was unable to devise a plan that would stand the test of constitutional

That we, who so dearly love the grand old state of our birth and permanent residence, should be compelled to see this ruthless work of destruction go on without being able to put a single obstacle in its path by way of legislative enactment is indeed harrowing to the soul. But there is one remedy left. Let us brand these sneaking thieves with the mark of Cain, so far as any social or mark of Cain, so far as any social or business intercourse is concerned. And let us endeavor to enlighten our brethren who fall into their tolls, as regards the short-sighted policy they are pursuing. The revenue obtained is so insignificant that it can hardly enter as a factor in case the owner can see that there is any value whatever in the young standing ipal court at Woodsville Wednesday and held without ball for appearance before the grand jury. It developed at the hearing that she is subject to our fathers mowed is today producing a heavier crop of mercantile timber than the original old growth. Abandoned farms covered with second growth timber, "buil" spruce if you please, are getting to be the most valuable of uncultivated land, having a present market value, although not half advanced, as yet, for cutting. Why then spoil and mutilate such tracts for a pittance? If such trees are to be sold let the buyers pay something approaching their worth. Lumbermen are willing to pay to the timber owners one-half the net proceeds. Let the Christmas tree buyers do the same. the Christmas tree buyers do the same, and share with the land owner a reason-able part of the dollars which they get in place of the cents which they give.

Yet, better far, let the mutilation of these promising trees alone. There is no prettier sight on our fills than those dense groves of perennial green.

Let the Deer Increase

[St. Albans Messenger.] Incomplete reports of the number of deer killed during the open season show a marked falling off from last year's slaughter. There is no evidence at hand to show any material decrease in the number of hunters and it is not unfair conclusion to draw that there were fewer deer to kill. Vermonters are just be-ginning to know what a deer looks like. For years hardly one in a thousand of our population ever saw one of these grace-ful animals unless in some private park. Now that they have begun to be more abundant in recent years it is a pity to exterminate them again. If the open season could be abolished altogether it would give the deer a chance to increase and would prevent the sacrifice of men killing during every open season, to say nothing of the oxen and choice heifer calves shot by over-enthusiastic hunters. When the deer become so numerous that they do any serious damage it will be time enough to provide for an open season

> A Great Mistake. (Northfield News.)

The general expression from those competent to judge is that land owners make a great mistake from a financial point in allowing the indiscriminate slaughter of young spruce trees for city markets for Christmas. In 10 years these times over what they will bring now

SONS OF THE REVOLUTION.

Annual Meeting at Burlington Wednesday. The annual meeting of the Vermont Society, Sons of the American Revolution, was held Wednesday afternoon at the Van Ness House and a variety of business of importance was transacted. The meet-ing was called to order by Dr. H. D. Holton of Brattleboro, president, after which various reports were received, that of C. L. Smith, treasurer, showing an unex-pended balance of $256.41. The proposition from the board of managers to hold a mil-winter neeting and banquet was ap-proved. The report of the treasurer of the Ethan Allen tower fund showed that the expense attached to that project was $2432.56. The question of printing the proceedings of the dedication was discussed and left to a committee, consisting of President Holton, G. G. Benedict and W.

J. Van Patten.
An amendment of the constitution was proposed raising the dues from $1 to $2 per annum, the extra amount to be used as a fund to mark historical sites. An interesting feature of the meeting was the election to membership of William Constant Wheeler of South Woodbury, who is a real son of the Revolution, and is probably the youngest in the United States, his age being 58. His father, Com-for Wheeler, was a soldler in the Revo-lution, and an orderly for Gen. Green.
